MBA (ABM) PROGRAMME AT A GLANCE

The University of Agricultural Sciences, Bangalore was inaugurated by Dr. Zakir Hussain, the then Vice President of India on 21st August, 1964 in the august presence of Mr. Chester Bowles, the then US Ambassador to India and Sri S. Nijalingappa, the then Chief Minister. In 1969, Smt. Indira Gandhi, the then Prime Minister, inaugurated the GKVK campus on 12th July. The University has entered in to MoU with several National and International reputed Organizations/Universities, to have a better interface with Industry and Institutions and also to help the post-graduate students in their future careers in academics, research and extension. The students of Master's programme graduating from the University are making effective use of their expertise for the improvement of the living standards of farmers as well as in the overall development of agriculture.

In India, agricultural development is one of the most powerful tools to end extreme poverty, boost shared prosperity and feed 1.42 billion people. Since independence, a landmark agricultural revolution has transformed the nation from chronic dependence on grain imports into an agricultural power house that is now a net exporter of food.

The agriculture industry has radically transformed over the past 50 years. India's agriculture has seen a paradigm shift since independence due to rapidly changing and highly volatile markets, digital technology and a consumer-focused world, creating big opportunities in the field of Agribusiness. Technology has played an important role in developing the farming industry and improving agribusiness. Advances in farm machinery have expanded the scale and speed of their utilization and their adoption leading to more efficient cultivation of land.

Agribusiness has to be seen not just as economically important, but also as a critical part of society. Agribusiness is growing and evolving into a technology and market driven industry, extending from primary production to value addition, service orientation and market linkages. As such, successful Agribusiness Management requires a special set of skills, expertise, and acumen, quite different from conventional business management. Agribusiness Management (ABM) education plays a crucial role in providing quality human resource to the industry. It is with this realization and the long-felt need to establish a model institution of excellence in Agribusiness Management, the University of Agricultural Sciences, Bangalore began to offer MBA (ABM) programme from the academic year 2007-08 in Bengaluru, the Silicon City of India.

The MBA (ABM) programme offered by the Institute of Agri-Business Management with the aegis of University of Agricultural Sciences Bangalore is designed to equip students with training, knowledge and professional skills to work in the fields of agribusiness and emphasizes the multifaceted development of the students as well as to inculcate the values of team work and integrity. The curriculum of MBA (ABM) is designed to help the students to develop and nurture their decision-making skills, ignite managerial spark from within, harness the managerial capabilities for facing a variety of business situations, efficiently and effectively.

The programme offers varied nature of courses such as Agricultural and Food Marketing Management, Food Retail Management, Risk Management in Agribusiness, Human Resource Management for Agricultural Organizations, Project Management and Agribusiness Entrepreneurship, Productions and Operations Management, Agri supply Chain management, International Trade in Agricultural Products, Business Mathematics, Managerial Accounting, Communication for Management and Agribusiness, Research Methodology for Agribusiness etc., along with Agribusiness Interface in the form of Project Work (in two semesters) and summer placement. The curricula of MBA (ABM) programme has been revised from time to time to meet the ever-changing needs of the agribusiness industry. The University has adopted the syllabus as per BSMA recommendations (approved by ICAR, New Delhi) for MBA (ABM) programme from the academic year 2022-23.

The programme is offered by experienced UASB faculty and expert faculty (from reputed Management Schools) and industry experts, who bring their rich experience into the classroom, providing relevant examples and case studies. Since its inception, around 344 MBA (ABM) students have graduated and are employed in diverse fields of Agribusiness, Retail Marketing, Food Processing, Food Production, ICT, Banking and other domains. The Institute has a separate placement cell, which has facilitated jobs for over 286 MBA (ABM) graduates in leading public and private organizations/institutions/companies and also in Multinational Companies since 2007-08.

Project work in Agribusiness Management has become an important component of MBA (ABM) programme. Research areas of the students cover Marketing Infrastructure, Price Forecasting, Consumer Preference, Production and Marketing Management, Business Performance, Value Chain Analysis, Market Dynamics, Agricultural Finance, Export Business in Agriculture, Market Integration, Agribusiness Appraisal, Organic Farming, Contract Farming, Futures Trade, Online Trade of Farm Products, Retail Management etc.
